EU proposes Euro 750 billion coronavirus recovery fund

The European Commission has proposed a Euro 750 billion ($825 billion) recovery fund to help the economy through the deep recession induced by the coronavirus pandemic. Under the proposal, the Commission would borrow the funds from the market and then disburse two-thirds in grants and the rest in loans to cushion the unprecedented slump expected this year due to the coronavirus lockdowns.

Asian countries need to focus on public private partnerships to support infrastructure

COVID-19 is directly impacting infrastructure services around the world. Demand for existing infrastructure has fallen sharply and construction of new infrastructure has slowed. In seeking value for money, public-private partnerships (PPPs) are an important modality for governments to attract private capital and expertise into infrastructure in Asia, says Asian Development Bank.

Improvement in business activity with factories restarting operations

Confederation of Indian Industry (CII) report shows pick-up in resumption of business activities, due to factories being operational in large part of the country. The 17.3 million e-way bills generated so far this month are about twice the 8.6 million filed in April. Constraints including lack of demand, high fixed costs, low capacity utilisation, labour shortage, lack of public transport which are still disrupting the businesses activity.

Government eyeing on RBI to monetise deficit

Considering the devastating impact on revenues due to pandemic and nationwide lockdown, government is likely to look at the option of the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) monetising the deficit in the second half of the financial year. This could move the fiscal deficit to nearly 5.5% of GDP as compared to earlier estimation of 3.5%.
